Inflation: No

New Plant Now

If you think irresponsibility in high government circles on money matters doesn't harm you, if "inflation" is just a word with no particular meaning for your own community, read this item from yesterday's Wall Street Journal:

"Plans to build a 12-million-dollar paper pulp plant by Dierks Lumber & Coal Co. have been postponed indefinitely because the construction cost has increased 30 per cent over the first estimate. Frederick H. Dierks, president, announced.

"The company had formed a wholly-owned subsidiary, White Star Paper Co., to build and operate the plant near Prescott, Ark."

Politicians juggle prices and throw the little fellow what looks like a juicy morsel in high dollar-value for his labor or his product; but the family groans under a steepening cost of living — and we have this last bitter pill to swallow: The case of a vast new industry scheduled for construction in our own area but knocked out solely because dollar values have been destroyed by the Washington tinkers.

Mr. Dierks discloses that the original estimate for White Star's cost was 12 millions, and of course the Washington dispatch on rapid-tax-writer earlier this week showed the estimate to have come up to about 18 million. That's what inflation means — at the higher business levels you are asked to pay 18 millions for something worth only 12, and you won't pay it.

And yet an industry that proposes to take the raw material and labor of our section and produce a complex product like paper is fundamental to the growth of population and wealth. Political bungling that destroys something like this has destroyed more than mere dollars can replace. For dollars are owned by a few, and dissipated over generations; but industry offers jobs and purchasing power for many, and when the original workers are gone the jobs are still there for the children.

Government to Study Case of Sam Mason

Washington, July 21 — (AP) — The justice department today promised prompt study of the case of pudgy Sam Mason, "accused by senators of being a slick confidence man who bilked victims of thousands of dollars."

Senator Mundt (R-SD) said meanwhile that he hopes the department and the internal revenue bureau will concentrate on Mason's testimony to senate investigators that he has filed no income tax returns for more than 20 years.

Mason said he didn't file because he never had any money left over at the end of the year.

Mundt, a member of the senate committee which investigated Mason's bizarre activities, declared to reporters that "conditions in the country at present are conducive of craze of a swindlers' paradise."

The North Dakota lawmaker said he will urge the inquiry committee to issue a report "warning the public against get-rich-quick schemes."

Mason, a New Yorker, told the committee yesterday he draws about $105 a month in government compensation for a leg he lost in World War I. This was confirmed by the veterans administration.

Mason acknowledged under oath that he collected about $88,000 from five "clients" who testified Thursday they paid him up to $200,000.

He admitted the money he got was in return for his promises that he would obtain bargain leases on "surplus" government buildings which could be sub-leased at a big profit. Another promise was to obtain business contracts in government and private industry.

Mason said he himself never made any direct effort to make good on those promises. He said he turned a big chunk of the money over to a mysterious "Mr. Eungart," whom he described as an influential man "who knew the right people" in Washington.

Eungart, Mason said, was to help him meet the promises he had made. The committee said it had been unable to find Eungart. Mason said he understood Eungart was in Australia but might be back next month.

Two priests of the Greek Catholic church in New York told the committee they had been paid between $150,000 and $200,000 to get their order of St. Basil leases on federal buildings. They said they got nothing in return.

Mason testified, in reply to questions, that he entered into a scheme to bribe government officials with "sewer money" to pave the way for leases on federal buildings.

"What's wrong with that?" he demanded.

The committee ended its inquiry without questioning Mason any further about that. But Chairman Moey (D-NC) said at the outset of the investigation there was no evidence government officials were in any way involved in Mason's operations.

REAL ESTATE MARKET FLOPS — Time was when a good Korean foxhole was worth money in re-sale value to old Army men with a flair for the fast buck. But all this "cease fire" activity has shot the front-line real estate market all to Seoul-and-gone. So M/Sgt. William H. Ellis, left, of Fort Worth, Tex., finds himself up against a hard bargainer in Sgt. Dimas Gonzales, of Jerome, Ariz., who knows it's a buyer's market. 50th Wedding Anniversary for Finigans

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Finigan

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Finigan of McNab celebrated their golden wedding anniversary there Sunday, July 15.

J. C. Finigan and Miss Rachel Bogan were married at the ages of 17 and 14, respectively, at Old Rocky Comfort now known as Foreman, Ark. Mr. Finigan was the son of Owen and Mary Finigan of Mississippi. Mrs. Finigan was the daughter of William and Sinda Pettit Bogan of Rocky Comfort.

Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bogan, moved from Mississippi in an ox-wagon before the War Between the States. The wagon was of all-wood construction and as greased with tar that had been "run" by the grandfather.

He built a log house near Old Rocky Comfort and there he reared his family, the father of Mrs. Finigan having been born in that house. There were four children, three now living, two sons and a daughter: H. A. Finigan and Mrs. Richard Young of Schaaf, and H. H. Finigan of Texarkana, Ark.

The following enjoyed a bountiful luncheon under the shade of the trees in the yard:

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Finigan and daughter Janice of Schaaf, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Young and four children of Schaaf.

Mr. and Mrs. James Robinson of Schaaf.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Finigan and children, Jimmie, Brenda, Larry Wayne and Michael of Texarkana.

Mrs. Lottie May Garland and three children.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Jones and of Schaaf.

Many friends called during the afternoon.

A band rehearsal has been called for 7:30 p. m. Monday at the band room at Hope High School by Director G. T. Cannon. The group will prepare for the festival day program.

Dime Store Heiress Has Divorce

Cuernavaca, Mexico, July 21 — (AP) — Dime Store Heiress Barbara Hutton finally has her divorce from husband number four, Prince Igor Troubetzkoy.

Judge Alfonso Ron said last night that he signed the decree July 14 — four months and 16 days after the blonde, ailing, 30-year-old heiress to the Woolworth millions applied.

Miss Hutton has been in Europe recently where she has been photographed with German Tennis Ace Baron Gottfried Von Cramm.

The divorce was held up after the "poor little rich girl" asked for it Feb. 26 because Prince Troubetzkoy claimed he had not been properly notified of his wife's action.

Troubetzkoy lives in France, and notification consisted of a note posted on the bulletin board of the dingy Cuernavaca courthouse.

Judge Roqueni, of the Morales State court, then ruled he was not competent to deal with the case: The Morales Supreme court said he was and told him to act.

The prince's lawyers, who accused of trying for a "quickie" divorce, withdrew from the action. They never confirmed a report that Troubetzkoy put a $3,000,000 price on his consent to a separation.

Miss Hutton's husbands were:

1. Prince Alexis Mdivani, a Russian refugee, 1933-1935. Married in Paris, divorced in Reno.

2. Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, a Dane for whom she gave up her American citizenship, 1935-1941. Married in Reno, divorced in Copenhagen, Denmark. A son, Lance, was born of this marriage in 1936.

3. Cary Grant, British-born movie actor, 1942-1945. Married and divorced in Los Angeles.

Hal Boyle, the Pavement Plato, Gives Forth With Some Street Corner Sayings

By HAL BOYLE
New York — (AP) — Street corner sayings of a pavement plato: The thinnest thing in the world is flattery — and the hardest to see through.

Marriage maxim: Never tell a wife to do anything unless she already has decided to.

There is more nourishment in a lean truth than a fat lie.

A man is like a railroad train. He never gets anywhere unless he's got something to run on.

Children used to say "thank you" when you gave them a penny. Now they ask, "What's it for?"

If misery really loves company, why doesn't everybody today throw a party?

One way to keep from yating anybody is never to love anybody. Dare you to try!

It is better to be a butterfly on a grave than the stern name beneath.

The trouble with life isn't that you can't enjoy it twice. It's so hard to enjoy it once.

An educated sow shows the power of mind over manners.

Some people are so willing to be regimented they'll stand in line just for a chance to stand in line.

Gratitude is what we expect from other folks for telling them to act better than we do ourselves.

Local Officer to Take Special Hospital Training

Fort Riley, Kansas, July 18, Maj. George B. Curtis, adjutant of the U. S. Army Hospital here, has been assigned to the Student Detachment, Medical Field Service School, Brooke Army Medical Center, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., where he will begin Sept. 10 a nine-months course in Hospital Administration.

Major Curtis will complete his second tour of duty here as adjutant of the hospital, having served in that capacity between January and April, 1949, and since December, 1949.

He first served at Fort Riley from 1935 to 1939 and was then transferred to Hawaii, where he was stationed during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Returning to the United States in 1942, he attended the Officer Candidate School at Carlisle, Pa., and, after graduation, was assigned as adjutant of the Station Hospital at the New Orleans Port of Embarkation. In 1946, he began a two-year tour of duty in the Philippine Islands, returning to this station in 1949.

Major and Mrs. Curtis reside at Riley, Kan. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Curtis of near Hope, Ark.

Wrong Drug Kills Young Mother

Denver, July 20 — (AP) — The administration of the "wrong drug" by error was blamed today for the death of a 23-year-old Denver woman after she gave birth to her third child.

Dr. James P. Dixon, manager of health and hospitals for the city, said Ursula Martinez died June 15 after giving birth to a daughter.

"By error, a wrong drug was administered to Mrs. Martinez for the production of anesthesia during the course of her delivery," Dr. Dixon said.

"The error was immediately discovered and all measures were taken to remedy the act."

A coroner's report named Bruce M. Porter, a resident physician at Denver General hospital, as the doctor who administered the drug. Dr. Dixon said Dr. Porter was doing postgraduate work after receiving his M. D. Degree.

Dr. Porter has been cleared on any charges of criminal negligence. Dr. Dixon reported, because investigation showed that the administration of the drug was "in effect, an accidental misadministration of medication."

"It is an unfortunate tragedy which could have happened in any hospital," Dr. Dixon said, "and it is an undesirable reflection of Denver General hospital and the medical profession, but it is one of those things that is an inherent hazard in the profession."

Hot Springs, July 21 — (AP) — Plans of General Motors corporation to establish a $2,000,000 aluminum casting plant at nearby Jones Mill have hit a snag.

It was announced in Washington yesterday that the defense production administration had denied a GM application for a certificate of necessity.

Such a certificate would have allowed GM to amortize the cost of the plant — write it off against taxes — in five years.

A GM spokesman in Washington said the corporation was appealing for reconsideration of the DPA denial on the basis of more extensive investigation and that "We are not accepting the denial as final."

Here in Hot Springs, C. M. Jessup, general manager of GM's fabric-casting division, said plans for the Jones Mill plant were not being abandoned — just held in abeyance.

Jessup met here yesterday with Senator McClellan of Arkansas and Nigal Bell, assistant administrator of the DPA's aluminum division.

Afterwards, McClellan said Bell would return to Washington to "get a true picture" of the situation.

General Motors announced plans for the plant in April. It already had purchased a site for the facility which would employ 1,000 persons. The plant would manufacture automobile transmissions, for automobiles and parts for defense machines, using aluminum from the nearby Reynolds Metals company plant.

A DPA spokesman said the certificate was denied "presumably on the conclusion that there are sufficient casting facilities available."

He explained that GM could proceed with construction of the plant without a certificate of necessity — the main value of which is the tax amortization feature.

Cities Appeal Phone Rate Hike

Little Rock, July 21 — (AP) — A group of Arkansas cities served by Southwest Bell Telephone company has appealed a $3,000,000 annual telephone rate increase to the state Supreme court.

The increase was approved by the Arkansas public service commission and upheld by Pulaski Circuit court.

Says Farm Fund Cutback Sprouts in New Bill

Washington, July 21 — (AP) — Informed senators said today that $25,000,000 which congress ordered President Truman to cut back in last year's farm program has sprouted anew in the billion-dollar agricultural appropriation bill for fiscal 1952.

The lawmakers, who asked that they not be identified by name, told a reporter the house probably passed the bill without knowing that it, in effect, reversed last year's order.

The senate appropriations committee was expected to approve today its version of the measure. This also carries the topical $25,000,000, senators said.

Here is the way they explain it: Last year congress voted some $30,000,000 to carry out regular government activities. But it directed Mr. Truman to save a half billion dollars of this by applying cuts to certain departments and agencies.

The President ordered a slash of $25,000,000 in the $2,82,250,000 "conservation and use" funds of the production and marketing administration.

These are the payments made to farmers for following certain approved programs and practices of soil conservation.

The agency which directs these programs, the production and marketing administration, already had made contracts with farmers for the full amount. So it borrowed the $25,000,000 from the commodity credit corporation, another agriculture department agency. PMA has congressional authority to borrow up to $50,000,000 each year from CCC in advance of actual appropriations.

The pending money bill contains funds which will make it possible for PMA to clear its account with CCC.

Although this maneuver may cause some howls, government lawyers tell senators it is all according to law.

Senator Russell D. (Ga.) who will be floor manager for the senate's big farm bill, told a reporter it contains "some additions" to amounts voted by the house. Russell is chairman of the subcommittee which wrote the bill.

Reds Building Up on Front in Korea

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, July 21 — (AP) — Communist forces today continued to bolster front-line positions but there were no indications an attack was imminent.

An Eighth Army spokesman said that "all along the front the enemy now has probably as much as he had for the April 22 offensive."

United Nations patrols stabbed close to main Red lines and met blistering attacks. Several withdrew. There were many short, sharp clashes, especially on the central front and eastward.

Increased Communist frontline strength appeared to be no more than bolstering of defenses. U. N. observers have spotted no significant movement of Red troops or supplies behind the front.

Real humped air operations but medium and light bombers attacked North Korean targets using radar to sight through the clouds.

There was no ground contact Friday around the neutral zone of Kaosong but patrols sighted Red forces building new defenses.

There were two small clashes west of Chorwon, eastern anchor of the onetime Communist "Iron triangle" buildup area.

United Nations patrols moved about the former assembly area without contact and returned to their own lines without menacing the Red-held city of Pyongyang, northern tip of the triangle.

East of the triangle, sharp close-up actions were frequent and blistering.

The Communists drove back two platoon-size patrols north of Hwachon, situated at the western end of the sprawling Hwachon reservoir on the central front. Four more fights flared north of Yanggu at the eastern end of the reservoir.

One U. N. patrol fought unsuccessfully for five hours to take a Red hill in the Yanggu sector.

The Communists also harassed U. N. positions in this sector with sporadic mortar and 76 millimeter fire.

Another U. N. patrol in the Inso sector, southeast of Yanggu and four miles north of the 38th parallel, was pounded for three hours by artillery and mortar fire before it withdrew.

One of the fiercest battles of the day was a 12-hour clash on the east coast between two patrols. The battle broke off and each force moved back to its own lines.

Peta's Condition Worsening

Paris, July 21 — (AP) — The condition of Henri Philippe Petain, 85-year-old chief of France during the Nazi occupation, was reported steadily worsening today.

His lawyer, Jacques Isorni, said he and members of Petain's family were leaving today for the Ile De Yeu, off the west coast of France, where Petain is hospitalized.

Peta recently was moved to the hospital from a prison cell where he was serving a life sentence for treason.

Weather Causes Three Deaths

By The Associated Press
Violent thunderstorms, with gale-like winds of 100 miles an hour, killed three persons, injured nearly 100 and caused heavy property and crop damage in central Minnesota and eastern South Dakota last night.

The deaths occurred in the twin cities area of Minneapolis-St. Paul. At least 70 persons were treated at the Minneapolis General hospital for injuries attributed to the storm.

Nearly two inches of rain hit the storm belt. Trees toppled and power lines were cut, blacking out large areas. Lightning bolts set several small fires. Scores of automobiles were crushed by falling trees. Traffic was at a virtual standstill during the storm.

An unidentified man and woman were killed when the roof of a food store in St. Anthony, a Minneapolis suburb, collapsed. They were buried in the tons of debris. The store was crowded with shoppers.

Among the injured in Minneapolis were about 20 of the 700 persons at a revival meeting in a tent which was blown down by the strong winds.

Power and telephone lines were ripped out in gale-like winds swept Watertown, S. D., 200 miles west of the twin cities. A grain elevator, a house and three trailers were toppled by the winds. Damage to crops was heavy.

It was fair weather over most of the country today, with some thunderstorms from Nebraska northward into the upper Mississippi valley.

Warm, humid weather continued over the southern half of the nation and northward into Iowa. Temperatures were around normal levels in the northern tier of states.

Douglas shook his head. "No man has to marry you, Char; but almost any man would want to."

"Perhaps it would be best to let the men decide for themselves."

"I was afraid one of you might have wrong ideas, on account of me."

"I can't speak for him, but I fail to see why you should believe I might feel any obligation towards you. Or can't you even remember what you said to me the last time we met?"

"I remember. What else could I say after I'd gotten into such a mess?"

"You might have thought of me before you got into your mess."

KENNETH MONTIJO was not a gentleman of the old South with archaic, sentimental ideas about women. Yet he could rescue a maiden in distress and kiss her so that she remembered. In his veins pulsed the blood of caballeros. Moreover, as she stood there, her arms hanging submissively at her side, waiting to be taken, her mouth (whose lips he remembered) grave, her dark eyes challenging him, she was very desirable.

"I'll be honored," he said; and added with the blunt honesty of a cautious Scot, "but where will I keep you?"

Charity smiled and answered his bow with a courtesy. She turned to Douglas. "It's sweet of you to give me up, Doug, especially since you love me. You do love me, don't you?"

"Yes, I love you."

Charity Standish, who had left Ohio a few months before with only a few cents on her mind and no interest in men beyond a faintly sadistic and wholly impersonal desire to see Pancho Villa and Winkie the Barber balancing each other from arms of a windmill, surveyed her two helpless captives. The only fly in the fat ointment of her complacency was that she could not have them both. She walked to Ken; her arms yoked his neck.

"It would be lovely to live in your saddle bags," she murmured. When she had kissed him, she was a little breathless. "That was for romance and memories," she whispered. To Douglas she spoke briskly. "Come on, Doug. We'd better get married right now. There are too many dangerous people in the West—characters such as Ken Montiyo."

Placed on Oil

Magnolia, July 21 — (AP) — Restrictions on production from Arkansas' oil and gas fields are being related because "there is not enough oil."

The state oil and gas commission, meeting here yesterday, approved an increase from 4,100 to 4,500 barrels a day in the McKamee-Patterson field of LaFayette county.

And Chairman O. C. Bailey indicated the commission would encourage other increases in allowable production.

This is an about face on the part of the commission, which two years ago ordered Arkansas operators to curtail production because the market was overloaded with oil.

Bailey explained yesterday, however, that the government is concerned about whether production can be increased in this country if Iranian sources definitely are lost.
